

The Agonies of Apostasy

Chapter 2

Audio Lesson: Old Testament Survey lesson 28

Objective: To understand the cycle of apostasy in the book of Judges and learn from it.

And the people said to Joshua, "We will serve the LORD our God and obey him."

—Joshua 24:24

In those days there was no king in Israel; every man did what was right in his own eyes.

—Judges 17:6

The book of Judges covers the 400 years after the conquest of the Promised Land, 400 years after the Israelites said, "We will serve the Lord our God and obey him." There was no king in this period of Hebrew history, and "every man did what was right in his own eyes" (Judges 17:6). The main problem in the book of Judges is the cycle of apostasy, or falling away, in which people who had pledged to obey God, began to abandon their faith. They would begin with commitment to God, and then fall away from that commitment. Then they would become corrupt and be defeated by their enemies. In their distress, they would cry out to God, who would send a judge to deliver them, and then they would recommit. Then the cycle would start all over again.

This cycle happens seven times in the book of Judges and teaches us that as individuals and as nations we can miss God's blessings when we forget our commitment to love and obey Him. Judges warns us of the dangers of neglecting God and the rewards of loving, worshiping, and serving Him.

1. True or false? The book of Joshua is about conquest, and the book of Judges is about failures after the conquest.
2. True or false? The Bible says that war is always wrong.
